Vegetable of the month...Rapini

This cultivated vegetable descends from a wild herb related to the turnip that grew either in China or the Mediterranean region. Rapini is now grown throughout the world, and is available all year long with a peak season of fall to spring. Also known as Italian turnip, broccoletto, cime di rapa and broccoli rabe, Rapini, makes a delicious side dish when it's sautéed and seasoned with fresh garlic, pepper, and a pinch of salt. Culinary aspects aside, the slightly bitter-tasting leaves and stems of Rapini are also supercharged with a range of nutrients. Thanks to its broad nutritional profile, rapini can offer a whole host of health benefits to those who have the courage to befriend this relatively unknown member of the Brassica family of plants. Here's a lowdown of the most interesting health benefits of Rapini.

1. Rapini has cancer-fighting properties

Rapini contains powerful cancer fighting phytochemicals. These phytochemicals help prevent cellular damage caused by free radicals and maintains a healthy hormonal balance for both men and women.

2. Rapini helps keep bones strong

Rapini's bone-strengthening properties are the outcome of its vitamin K content. One half cup serving daily is enough to keep your bones from thinning. A study of nurses found that those consuming 109 mcg of vitamin K a day had a lower risk of hip fracture over a 10 year period.

3. Rapini lowers the risk of heart disease

Rapini contains strong anti-inflammatory nutrients, such as folate and vitamins C. Both nutrients reduce The type of amino acid that can damage the arteries causing coronary heart disease.

4. Detox and heal with rapini

Rapini is one of the many cruciferous vegetables that contain sulfur. Sulfur contains a compound that assists detoxification of the liver. This compound has also been shown to reduce inflammation in arthritis patients.

5. Improve insulin sensitivity with rapini

Rapini contains two grams of fibre for every cup. Specifically, the fibre in rapini is soluble fibre, which slows transit and digestion time in the GI tract.

Sautéed Rapini

Ingredients (4 Servings)

- 2 or 3 tbsp extra virgin olive oil
- 2 large or 3 smaller cloves of garlic
- 2 or 3 tbsp of water
- salt, preferably Kosher or sea salt
- one bunch of rapini, washed and trimmed (do not remove the stalks entirely, just tips)
- (optional: crushed red pepper flakes, parmesan cheese or fresh/dried cayenne pepper)

Instructions

1. Put the oil, garlic and pepper in a frying pan over medium high heat. Cook until garlic just starts to brown.
2. Add the rapini (cut in half if the bunch is really long)
3. Turn the greens quickly, then cover and sauté for a few minutes, occasionally turning. Add salt to taste. Lower the heat, if necessary.
4. Don't overcook the rapini, the stalks should still be a bit firm/crunchy when done; after 5 or 6 minutes you should probably start checking for doneness. The best way to check is to taste a piece (and check for salt too.)

Joining the Volunteer Team

If you Google “benefits of volunteering” you will find lots of articles. There are the numerous benefits that we all know, such as, volunteering is good for your mind and body, volunteering helps counteract the effects of stress, anger, and anxiety, volunteering combats depression, volunteering makes you happy, volunteering increases self-confidence and volunteering provides a sense of purpose. But there are many sub benefits or micro benefits if you will, like in the case of the younger generation the benefits are often building experiences, making connections, improving ones resume and acquiring self confidence to name just a few.

But, why volunteer at YWALC?

Because YWALC could not stay open without volunteers

Because YWALC is a gem

Because YWALC is family

Because at YWALC you're a STAR!

If you have a little bit of time to spare, just ask for the Volunteer Application Form at the reception desk or from Allegra, take 5 minutes to complete it and give yourself the opportunity to be part of our great Volunteer Team.

Dear Allegra,
I am a convenor of a social program here at YWALC and I'm having trouble convincing my group to not eat in the program room. Can you tell me some of the reasons why the groups can no longer eat in the programs rooms?
Signed
Cookie Crumbleton

Hi Cookie,
I'm so glad you asked Cookie! Here at the Centre there is always lots of food, we love to share and our partner Second Harvest is very generous but all of the food consumption means a lot of small accidents on the floors and tabletops. As we are a small staff here it is easier to clean the hallway several times a day than to clean all of the rooms several times a day. A clean program room means that we can also get ready for the next program in less time to accommodate more people. There are a few other tiny little reasons that shall remain nameless. So please keep asking members in the program rooms to eat in the hallway!
Happy snacking!
Allegra

Shake a volunteer's hand

Volunteers are a very special breed.
They're not afraid to step in when they see the need.
They're always willing to lend a hand,
To lift someone up who's sinking in quicksand.
They always have something encouraging to say,
And they manage to say it in the kindest way.
They share their skills, talents and time.
And in return, they don't ask for a dime.
So the next time you meet with some volunteers,
Shake their hands, and let them know you're happy they're here.

Third Annual YWALC Walk-a-Thon a Success!!

Thank you to everyone who participated in the third annual Stay Active, Be Fit, Live Well Walk-a-Thon on October 13, 2018. Thank you to all of our sponsors who gave in support of the walkers. So far, we have raised over $4,000.00 from sponsor and pocket change donations. The orange bag pocket donations did great this year and the group that came up with the most pocket change this year was Standing Drum Fit Friday, they will enjoy a little party. Thank you for digging deep Standing Drum Fit and thank you again to everyone who dropped change into the bags or sponsored a walker, we could not do it without you!!!!

As a non-profit, charitable organization, YWALC relies on the generous support of members like you. Your support helps YWALC sustain our programs and services.
